Carl Dahlhaus (1990) distinguishes between coordinate and subordinate harmony. Subordinate harmony is the hierarchical tonality or tonal harmony well known today. Coordinate harmony is the older Medieval and Renaissance tonalité ancienne, "The term is meant to signify that sonorities are linked one after the other without giving rise to the impression of a goal-directed development.

Harmonic Experience offers a comprehensive view of music that reconciles the ancient harmonic system of just intonation with the modern system of twelve-tone equal temperament. Saying that “the rules of music were not formed in our brains but in the resonance chambers of our bodies,” W. A. Mathieu recognizes the pronounced need for an experiential kind of teaching that reconnects the way we think music with the way we do music.
